Our Values

Denison University Libraries value education and learning, respect for all people and points of view, effective service to users, and cooperation and collaboration among all types of libraries.

Specifically, we are committed to creating the conditions for:

- student success
- collaboration with teaching faculty in the learning enterprise
- efficient, effective, and easy access to the broadest range of information and knowledge in all formats
- a neutral, welcoming, safe haven
- ethical use of information
- confidentiality of user transactions
- collaboration, cooperation, and sharing resources with other libraries in Ohio, the United States, and the world
- promoting Denison's intellectual and scholarly life and library contributions to it
- diversity among the people, their intellectual and personal viewpoints, the resources, and the environments that compose the Denison community
- constant evolution, adaptation, and improvement in library resources, staff, programs, and facilities
